

Health Care Reform 2.0

LEADERSHIP AND THE SHIFT TO A CULTURE OF HEALTH JUNE 3, 2015

TODAY'S FACILITATORS

Alyssa Bryson,
Program Director
MIT Community
Innovators Lab (CoLab)

TODAY'S FACILITATOR

Dayna L. Cunningham,
Executive Director
MIT Community
Innovators Lab (CoLab)

WORKSHOP OBJECTIVES

To introduce healthcare leaders to Theory U, an MIT leadership approach that can:

- provide practices and tools to help manage the complex challenges of health care transformation now.
- support collaboration among all sectors needed to move to a culture of wellness at the individual, organizational and community level within the industry.

WORKSHOP AGENDA

- Introduction: the Leader's Role
- Theory U: from Ego- to Eco-System Awareness
- Understanding the social field
- Key leadership capacity: learning to listen, observe, sense
- Leadership tools: generative dialogue and journaling

WORKSHOP CONTENT

- The biggest opportunity in moments of complexity and transformation is the leader's own ability to change the way she responds to change
- The key is empathy and paying attention to how we pay attention
- Today we will learn some insights and skills to help do that

ACTIONS TO CREATE CHANGE

Learning:

- the blind spot of leadership
- how to access the deepest sources of inspiration
- how to listen empathically
- how to support collaboration and create the conditions for the highest possible future to emerge

Q & A

EVALUATION

MORE INFORMATION?

▶▶ Follow Us:

www.LaborManagementInitiatives.org

1199SEIU League Labor Management Project

@LMP1199League

